

Motor MechanicsNovember 2007

At the most centres the question paper was answered fairly well. However, the sketches and drawings were often poorly done, except for a few candidates who fared well in this section.

No attempt was made by some candidates to do the question containing calculations, while others fared well in this section.

The short questions were answered well, as well as the question on workshop Management